

This is London's Child and Youth Network's family literacy website!

Launched in April of 2011, it is designed to share ideas and provide information and practical advice about how easily literacy can become a part of everyday life for families.

We are committed to strengthening the connection between home, school and community so that we can all work together to improve literacy outcomes for children and youth and make literacy a way of life of all Londoners.

Who would use it?

- Parents
- Professionals who work with children, teens or their families
- Children (for school or home)
- Teenagers (for school or home)

What's on it?

- Blogs by and for parents and professionals
- Reviews of books, cds, movies, games, websites and more
- Resources on topics of interest
- Recommended websites
- Common questions
- Quick tips
- London-based events that promote or celebrate literacy

How can you contribute?

- Talk it up to parents, students and colleagues
- Encourage students to generate content, particularly reviews – great writing experience!
- Write blogs or reviews yourself – what is happening in the field, what great resources have you discovered, what initiatives are working in your classroom
- Follow us on Twitter and Facebook

For more information contact Jennifer Smith, Literacy Project Manager at jesmith@london.ca or 519-661-2500 x7202